ZAVARELLA ASSISTANT TO PRESIDENT BISHOP

Victor Zavarella, administrative assistant to President Hearl Bishop, has a personal background which is as interesting as his academic achievements.

Dean Zavarella came to the U.S. from Italy at the age of nine. Because he could speak no English, Zavarella was sent to the Steger, Ill., grade school library every afternoon to learn English. "Before I graduated from grade school", he admitted, "I had read every book in the library including the encyclopedias." Due to the intensive education which the well-read student had experienced in Italy, he was able to complete eight years of grade school in three years.

After graduating from Bloom Township High School, Zavarella earned a B.S. and M.S. degree at the University of Illinois, where he was a member of the Phi Eta Sigma and Phi Delta Kappa honorary fraternities.

For his first teaching position Zavarella returned to Steger, Ill., where he taught social studies and coached basketball and baseball. Zavarella is proud of his eighth grade basketball team which had a 29-1 record. "But I can't take all the credit", he confessed, "because two of the boys were 6'7" and the average team height was 6'4".

Later teaching positions took him to an elementary school in Calumet City, Ill., and Leyden High School in Franklin Park, Ill. When Leyden High School split into two campuses, Zavarella went to West Leyden where he received acclaim in a national publication for developing a new method of teaching geography.

Zavarella again returned to the University of Illinois in 1966 to begin work on his doctorate degree. He was appointed department assistant in the department of education which led him to conduct research concerning higher educational needs in Illinois. After completion of his dissertation, he expects to receive his Ph. D. in June.

Despite a busy schedule, he has done considerable book reviewing in the writing of articles for professional journals.

The new administrator said one reason he came to Canton College was because it offered a great challenge. "We have some of the best programs in the country", he asserted, "I hope this community sees fit to give us the support for a class I junior college."

Zavarella is very impressed with both the student body and the staff at Canton College. "Some teachers have great rapport with the students which I find very gratifying", he said.

When asked about the future of Canton College, Zavarella proudly affirmed and admitted, "We have one of the best (junior colleges), but we're going to be the best!"

Zavarella and his wife, Nancy, have two children, Andrew, 10, and Mary, 7. The Zavarellas live at 388 W. Maple St. and find Canton one of the friendliest towns that they have lived in.

ADD 900 BOOKS

Nine hundred new books have been added to Canton College Library this year. This brings the total to 7,000 books, according to Miss Ruth Cagley, college librarian.

The library seats 74 students and has recently installed new lighting facilities. A record player with a few records is available.

Library hours are from 8 a.m. to 4:30 Monday through Friday. If a new librarian is hired, the library will also be opened from 6:30 to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday. However, until further notice the college library will be closed in the evenings.

Books will be checked out for three weeks with few renewals. The fine for overdue books will be 15c a day. Two postcard notices will be sent for fines and if not paid by then grades will be withheld at the end of the semester.

Books on reserve can be checked out at 4:30 p.m. and must be returned the next day by 9 a.m. Overdue reserve books will cost 25c for the first period and 5c for each additional period.

Miss Cagley reports that Canton College Library received $10,600 federal aid last year. This will be used to help expand in books, shelving, and other library materials.

GRANTS AVAILABLE

About 250 grants are available to CCC students in need of financial help to continue their college education.

The Illinois State Scholarship Commission last year awarded scholarships to 12 students enrolled here.

On the basis of increased funds available and newly-devised regulations, Canton College was offered the greatly increased number of "grants" this year. Financial need is of primary concern in deciding which students should receive help this year.

Students wishing to apply for one of these grants may make an appointment with Dan Brauer, CCC guidance counselor, who has additional information about the program.

ENROLLMENT CLIMBS

About 900 full-time day students and nearly 300 evening division students gives Canton Community College a slight increase in enrollment over last year.

Although the exact totals have not yet been announced, indications are that CCC enrollment figures will be at least as high as last year's despite earlier predictions that enrollment would be down because of the opening this fall of Illinois Central College in the tri-county area and the opening of another new junior college in Galesburg.

New students have come to Canton from as far away as Holland, New York, and Florida. Teachers of freshman rhetoric classes and counselors who have studied new students' ACT scores say the general ability level appears to be higher this year.

Adults and other area residents signing up for night courses seem to be more interested in serious academic pursuits than in what is known to some as "underwater basket - weaving" courses. They signed up in numbers for data processing, shorthand and typing and English courses and generally ignored "Bridge" or "Drugs and Alcohol."

Students, whatever their interests, still come in assorted sizes and with different levels of ability and educational backgrounds.

Four freshman, however, have drawn more than the average amount of attention. Think you're seeing double? Not at all. There really are two sets of identical twins in school.

The Meils sisters and Powell brothers, two pairs of identical twins, are new CCC freshmen this year.

Pam and Sandy Meils were born Dec. 1, 1949, in Methodist Hospital, Peoria. Pam, being two minutes older than Sandy, claims to be just an average girl who likes dancing, boys, and lots of fun. On the other hand, Sandy is the more energetic of the two. She likes to go horseback riding early in the morning.

Pam and Sandy graduated from Mid-County High School. Both girls were cheerleaders for three years, active in Future Homemakers of America, Girls' Athletic Association, Chorus, and played saxaphones in the band. On Sundays, Pam and Sandy take turns playing the organ at the Presbyterian Church.

In case you care to look up the brownish-green eyed twins, you can find them working at the college library. When they finish at Canton College, Pam and Sandy would like to work in an office as secretaries.

The other set of doubles, Mike and Pat Powell, are from Pittsfield. These husky twins (each weighs 190 pounds) were born Aug. 8, 1948.

The boys attended Pittsfield High School, where they had four years of football, two years of basketball, one year of baseball, and took part in wrestling and weight lifting. In their senior year, they made the all-conference football team in the Pittsfield area.

Both boys were active in Future Farmers of America and in 4-H for nine years. They are members of the Assembly of God Church.

After finishing at Canton College, Mike and Pat have stated that they will probably get their service duty out of the way, but some day hope to own their own garage, with an opportunity, they hope, to farm on the side.

LEARNING COMES FROM WITHIN

BY AL WATTS

Approximately 200 students made changes in their class schedule. This year's changes were mainly due to class conflicts and labs. Late registrants found difficulty in signing up for popular classes which sophomores have the advantage of taking to meet graduation requirements. This is better known as "frosh sacrifices."

Many students fail to realize that college is not an extension of high school, according to Dean Donald Mortvedt. College teaching differs from high school in that college is more organic and must be developed from within the student, as opposed to mechanical segmental teaching done in high school.

The burden rests upon the student when he fails to develop new integrations to use which are offered in lectures, discussions, movies, and personal experiences. When equipped with proper tools the individual student can develop creativity rather than "spoon - fed" or "Mickey - Mouse" training in simply memorizing data for later regurgitation, the dean says.

Many frosh fail to see this role in the learning process. Those who learn early succeed; others drop out.

That's why Orientation 90 is offered to bridge the gap between high school and college. One needs a "do-it-yourself" attitude with a professional staff to guide the student, educators believe.

Remembering to budget one's time and develop keener insight helps one to learn more effectively. Learning takes place in the learner.

"SIGNS OF THE TIME"... CCC FRESHMEN

Dean's Suggestion May Solve Parking Dilemma

One of the major problems which faces many C.C.C. students is hopefully to be dealt with this fall.

This problem is the parking situation around the college campus. One of the largest complaints heard around school is that the people are late to class or must rush out between classes in order to feed the hungry parking meters.

It is quite costly to the students to pay five cents per hour five days per week. Plus this, if he misses an hour he must pay a fine of fifty cents.

Some students park many blocks away from school for fear of getting parking tickets.

During the cold winter months this becomes quite a hardship to park so far away when one must walk in the cold snow with his arms loaded with books. A possible solution has been suggested to Dean Zavarella, who in return has volunteered to help present it to city officials.

The solution, which may need certain revisions, suggests that parking stickers be issued to students for a set fee per semester or per year.

The stickers will be valid during school hours only. There will also be certain areas of town in which stickers may not be used in order to not inconvenience the local merchants.

According to this solution any student wishing to park in an unauthorized area may do so. However, this student is responsible for feeding his meter and is subject to fine if his time is expired.

This is the best possible solution to one of the students' largest problems.

It is hoped that a meeting can be arranged between Dean Zavarella and one or two students and appropriate city officials.

It is also hoped that all of the unfortunate students who feed parking meters every hour on the hour will stand behind the dean and his new project. — M.C.

Lancer Wins Plaudits

Donald Mortvedt, Dean of Students at Canton Community College, this week praised the Lancer for its fine job in news reporting.

In an interview with a student reporter he said he believes the newspaper adviser, Mrs. Marian Guyton, and her staff, did a "superlative" job last year.

The dean feels that accurate and comprehensive news presented to the readers can be of great importance to the newly proposed Class I junior college district.

The Lancer, he felt, can become an important vehicle of communication between the public and the college.

The Mt. Carmel Baptist Church, 422 S. Fifth Ave., wishes to extend a hearty welcome to all college students and to invite students to come worship each Sunday and Wednesday.

Hours of service are: Sunday School, 9:30 a.m.; Morning Worship, 11 a.m.; Wednesday Prayer Service, 7 p.m.

SENATE REPORT
by Jack Flanagan

With school back in session your Senate is at work again. This article is new in the Lancer and we hope you will follow along with us and offer any suggestion you may have.

During the two meetings already this year your Student Senate has developed many ideas which will create a better student social life in Canton College.

Crusaders Day has been slated for Oct. 4. Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity has challenged Sigma Iota Nu in a football game that afternoon in the park. October organizational and individual activities will be announced some time this week.

Freshman elections to the Senate will be held Sept. 28. Five fresh senators will be elected. The new senators will be contacted of their victory Sept. 29.

Competition in the school spirit award will start Sept. 28 with election day. This year, as last year, the winning organization will be graded on a percentage basis. Pledges will also be included in the percentage.

A suggestion box will be installed in the lounge (Dahm Dungeon) and we would appreciate any suggestions as to social entertainment you may have.

A clock and a trophy case for Dahm Dungeon is now under discussion in the Senate.

LANCER POSES EDITORIAL QUESTIONS

Young people's opinions are pertinent to controversial problems of our day.

Since many of the issues of concern today directly affect Canton College students the Lancer will begin an editorial comment section to find the opinions of Canton's student body, on issues of provocative interest.

The ideas that we use might vary from the selective service system, with which many of us here are acquainted, to the racial trouble in American cities.

All letters must be signed, but an accompanying pen name may be used.

Letters may be deposited in either the Lancer box at Swartzbaugh Hall, or given to any member of the Lancer staff.

We hope the student body will find these questions intellectually stimulating, and we hope to hear your ideas on varied topics we will use.

The question in this issue is based on our moral commitment to Vietnam. DO WE HAVE ONE?

Write your thoughts on this subject and submit them within ten days.

PRESIDENT BISHOP WELCOMES STUDENTS

By H.C. Bishop,
President, Canton College

Some 1,200 college students have enrolled this fall at Canton College with the hope that Canton College will open many new doors to opportunity.

Many students are away from home for the first time with no one to direct or assist them in their studies, play or social life. Consequently, the individual student must decide for himself that he should attend class regularly, read his assignments every day and study industriously because this is what college is about -- courses and assignments. But there is even more -- much more to be gained from Canton College if the student is keen enough to recognize the extra opportunities which are available. Many students at Canton College do not discover these educational opportunities until their last year of attendance and sometimes that is too late, while others never realize these valuables.

One can profit from these discoveries throughout his entire college career if he finds them as a freshman. A college education is not just the courses one takes, but more the things learned in and out of class while in attendance. It is these extra-class opportunities that are real valuables.

Many students find satisfying experiences in learning that Canton College instructors are people. Few experiences are more rewarding to students than conversations with their instructors concerning the students' ideas and the values they hold. For a person of college age such experiences are an education within themselves.

Other valuables may be realized through special events, such as plays, speakers, athletic contests and student gatherings. These experiences bring about the student's role of leadership, the development of new tastes, new appreciations, development of respect for other people's ideas of beauty and verbal expression.

Other students find great value in reading unassigned books and magazines found in our library, a place of wonder and excitement. The student should do his assigned reading for his courses first, and then see what wonderful things there are beyond the assignment, beyond the class. The only thing that remotely compares to the stacks of our library is the ice cream bar at Soldwedel's. These extra valuables will never cost much out-of-the-pocket money, and most of them are free to all college students, or, to be more specific, they are included in our college fees.

There is much that students can gain by being successful through their first two years of college at Canton, and then in the subsequent years at college, and our country has much more at stake in their college success. No book or books can guarantee college success, for it is more the individual student who must play the decisive role.

As president of Canton College, may I extend to you a cordial welcome, with the hope that your experiences will be numerous and very rewarding.

President Hearl Bishop in his office in Dahm Hall.

FROM THE DESK OF THE PRESIDENT
by Dan Kelly, Pres.

The first thing I would like to make clear is why the Jefferson Airplane did not come to Canton as scheduled.

We sent their agent in Chicago $2,000 and asked for our contracts in return. Three weeks later we wrote to them again and asked for our contracts. The agent told us that he had talked to them and that they were pretty busy but our contract would be in the mail next week. Three weeks elapsed and still no contract. Once more we wrote them and the agents said they were working on them now and tomorrow morning it would be mailed.

As it turned out they kept all their Sept. contracts because they thought they might have a chance to go to Europe. Then in case they didn't they would have a month of contracts to fulfill. Well, they did not go to Europe, and we were later told that Grace (their singer) had her tonsils removed.

It is easy to see that we got a knife in the back. The best we could get were The Doors. Their "Light My Fire" was a hit. They were among the top ten in Variety. We hoped an adequate substitute. As it turned out the best were not very good. I have talked to Mr. Bishop and he has very solid financial ideas -- and we have some really fine, top groups we are going to try and get at CCC. If you want any group in particular contact a Student Senate member and let him know what you have in mind. Remember, we need your support if you want to have any concerts at all.

LIONS SPONSOR EYE BANK

Between 70 and 80 area residents have signed up with the Eye Bank sponsored by the Canton Lions Club, according to Myron Tepper, chairman.

A new project for the local service club, effort was started just this fall to enlist as many persons as possible in the Eye Bank program.

A card is issued to each person signed up which states that he has agreed that after his death his eyes will be donated for scientific use.

Many of those adults who have signed with the Eye Bank are members of the Canton Lions Club, which also has many other sight-saving projects. Each year the club buys corrective glasses for school children whose parents are unable to pay for the glasses. The club has also bought lights for schools and has contributed money to a national school to provide guide dogs for blind persons.

15 JOIN YR CLUB

The Young Republicans kicked off another year on Monday, Sept. 18.

Ron Tomevi, president, welcomed 15 new and old members to the club for the coming years. In his address, Tomevi explained the club's purpose, affiliation, and the activities for the coming year.

The first activity for the Y.R.'s, a barbecue, was held last Thursday evening at Big Creek Park.

ARMY RESERVE

DOORS APPEAR AT H.S. GYM

By Skip Daniels

Psychadelic sounds, produced by the "Doors", filled the Canton Senior High auditorium, Sept. 13. The "Wild Life", an ingenuous musical combo from Ohio, preceded the "Doors" on stage, and won more applause than the more famous California aggregation.

The "Doors" played their hit song, "Light My Fire", and many selections from "Sergeant Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band." There was one terrible drawback, in this reporter's opinion, and that was that the audience was not quite prepared to listen to their type of music.

First impressions are usually a determining factor in whether you are going to get along with a person. This is the contributing factor in the case of the "Doors." Playing their selections, they appeared to be on a "trip."

A professional entertainer whose first impression here last year was so great with students and townspeople that he has been invited to give another concert, is Roger Williams. His fine piano playing will be heard in the CSHS auditorium the night of Oct. 17.

Before the "Doors" made their tortuous way to the stage the opening week of this semester, several local combos, competing in the annual "Battle of the Bands", entertained an audience of less than 400 persons.

"The Continental Blues" won top rating. Making up the group are Rex Lewis, Karl Swigert, David Lewis, Jerry King, Mike Moore and Carol Cardot. They were awarded gift certificates for their performance of "Ode to Billy Joe", "Mister, You're A Better Man Than I", and an original composition, "Superflux Bluesthing."

Other combos competing in the "Battle of the Bands" were: Those Guys, Page 1 and the Articles, and Beggars' Opera.

15 COEDS, 1 MALE IN NURSING PROGRAM

By Phil Gibboney

Graham Hospital's School of Nursing has an enrollment of 16 freshmen, one of whom is Bruce Johnson, the only male.

Bruce's decision to become a nurse was not a hasty one. After graduating from Galesburg High in 1965, he was employed at the Galesburg Research Hospital for the summer months. He then became interested in the medical profession.

Bruce attended Canton Community College as a full time student of the 1966-67 school year and worked nights at the Graham Hospital. His interest in nursing grew as he continued working, and with the influence of fellow friends, Bruce enrolled as a full time student nurse this semester.

The first year of the three year training program will hold the young male nurse to a rigorous schedule. Classes are held at the hospital from 8:00 to 11:30 a.m. followed by afternoon classes at the college.

Such courses as anatomy, physiology, psychology and chemistry, are required for all student nurses.

A career leading to surgery or intensive care is Johnson's goal for the present.

When asked how he felt about being the only male member of a class, Johnson replied, "I think every guy should experience it." He further stated, "I find myself being volunteered by my classmates to perform certain duties. For example, I was recently selected to be the patient receiving a sponge bath; however, they did tell me I could wear cut offs."

Aside from his duties at the hospital, Bruce is also a member of the nurses choir which sings regularly at various functions.

After graduating from nurses school, Johnson hopes to enter the field of psychiatric nursing.

ADD IBM COURSE

Charles Kuehn is the head of the new data processing school, which will further add to Canton's business courses.

These classes are being held in the old speech rooms in 101, and 102 in Swartzbaugh Hall.

Computer and keypunch machines will be set up in these rooms.

Machines are being set up by an I.B.M. representative.

APPOINT MORTVEDT

Dean Donald Mortvedt was appointed chairman of Legal Problems Committee on Sept. 11, 1967. He will head a committee of six board members of the Illinois Association of College Registrars and Admissions Office.

IACRAO has been active in collecting a summary of Illinois court cases involving admissions and records and preparing guidelines for the release of student record information.

Mortvedt feels it is an honor and privilege to work with this outstanding group to further the objectives of the committee. When asked one year ago to consider such a position he answered affirmatively and was honored to be chosen this year's chairman.

NEW INSTRUCTORS

Nine new instructors have been added to the Canton Community College faculty.

The nine new members, their alma maters, and the departments in which they teach are:

Charles Black, U. of I., math.

Daniel Brauer, U. of I., orientation, student financial aid, student placement.

William Durley, farm machine technology.

Karen M. Keener, U. of I., English.

Robert McGinnis, U. of I., physical science.

Lois Sears, U. of I., secretarial science.

George Starasta, U. of Alaska, drafting and engineering.

Brian Telander, U. of I., farm machine technology.

Harold Wheeler, previously employed by John Deere Co., farm technology.

NEW EDITORS

Marcia Becker of Bartonville, and Barb Ennis of Elmwood, are the new co-editors of the college yearbook, the Shield.

Miss Becker is a 1966 graduate of Limestone High School where she served three years on the yearbook staff. In her senior year she was co-editor. She served as class editor on the Shield last year.

Miss Ennis, a 1966 graduate of Elmwood High School, served on the year book staff as layout editor.

Both girls are sophomores and are planning on attending Illinois State University next year. Marcia is preparing for elementary education and Barb's plans are for business.

The girls have a job ahead of them to match last year's yearbook. Cindy Hatch won the Yearbook Efficiency Award, which means careful planning, neat and accurate work and meeting of deadlines.

POST OFFICE REQUESTS

Canton Post Office receives 7,000 letters and sends an equal amount of mail out of the city daily.

Emil Sepich, acting postmaster for the Canton Post Office, explained the importance and use of our local Zip Code. Canton receives so much mail in a 24-hour period that they can only be speeded up by use of Zip Code numbers.

According to the local postmaster, it is just a matter of time before a new scanning device will be used to separate letters into Zip Code areas. The scanner will speed the letters with Zip Code numbers on their way while the other mail without a code number will leave the post office later.

Sepich hopes college students who live in Canton will write the number 61520 on their return addresses and suggests that they can use the Zip Code directory in the Post Office lobby to find the proper number for correspondence going out of the city.

Zip Code helps postal workers keep pace with a rapidly mounting volume of mail, postal authoritives believe. Post offices throughout the country handle more than 74 billion pieces of mail a year. The mail volume rises more than two billion pieces each year.

NEW TEEN CENTER OPENS

A new teen center is open at 67 East Elm Street from 3:30 p.m. daily except Sundays.

The center is open to all college students as well as high school students. Membership cards will be sold for 25 cents each. Cards can be withdrawn if the member misbehaves.

Absolutely no drinking will be permitted on the premises. There will be dances every Friday and Saturday night. Members will be admitted to these dances by paying $1.

ENTERTAIN VETS

The Young Republicans of Canton Community College have pledged their assistance in heading-up the drive to help entertain 125 disabled veterans from the Great Lakes who will be visiting Galesburg the week end of Sept. 29-Oct. 1.

Among the activities planned is a dance Saturday night at the Hotel Custer Ballroom. Any girl who is willing to assist in this project by serving as an escort for one of these young veterans is asked to contact any member of the Young Republicans or Faylene Conard.

NEW A-V ROOM IN SWARTZBAUGH

Mrs. Betty Starasta, art and women's P.E. instructor, is in charge of a new audio-visual room, added this fall at the rear of Swartzbaugh Hall.

The room, which accommodates up to 35 students, was constructed from a larger room and now measures about 21 by 15 feet. A small classroom is adjacent to the audio-visual room.

Mrs. Starasta says that the room is equipped with 16 mm movie projectors, a record player, tape recorder, 35 mm filmstrip and slide projector, and overhead projectors.

Two new corner speakers and a permanent wall screen were installed during the summer, as well as a storage area located next to the projection room.

Additions to the facilities already in use are being planned, including an opaque projector, more tape recorders and slide projectors.

SHARPSHOOTERS GALORE

By Sam Gowers and Al Ford

Canton's Crusaders acquired several outstanding freshmen for the rough basketball season ahead.

Leading the new cagers is 6'2" RON HAWKINS of Chicago. Ron played varsity at Marshall High School. Hawkins led his team in rebounding (12 per game) and scoring 23.4 points a game.

KEN WARD, 6'7" pivot man from East Peoria High School in East Peoria, Ill. Ken was the tallest man in the tough Mid-State Nine conference, and played well against all competition. Ward has more than his share of potential and should be a big asset to the Crusaders open attack.

LEWIS JOHNSON, from Farragut High School in Chicago, has joined Coach Jim Heeren's unpredictable squad. Johnson, 5'6" averaged 23.4 points per game last season, and he was particularly noted for his ball handling and tremendous desire to win.

ALAN ROSE, a 6'4" forward from Bushnell-Prairie City High School, should help augment the Crusaders power on the boards. Rose was the leading scorer for Bushnell High School's team this past season averaging 21 points per game. He was also the leading rebounder with an average of 14 rebounds per game. Rose was the captain of his team, and a unanimous choice for all conference honors. He has great desire and is a fine all around ball player.

CARL JOHNSON, a 6'2" jack rabbit, from Des Moines Technical High School in Des Moines, Ia., will add more depth to the Crusaders cushioned season ahead. Johnson weighs 180 pounds and is noted for his great jumping ability. He lettered one year in high school and is just coming into his own as a good scorer from the guard position. Johnson will fit in well with the go-go pattern that the Canton College Crusaders have become famous for.

JODY CLEMENS, a 6'5" center for the strong Greenview High School team this past season, has enrolled here for the fall semester of 1967. Clemens, who has lettered two years at his local high school, was the second leading scorer this past season with a 17.6 average. Greenview advanced to the sectional before being eliminated by powerful Galesburg. Jody was the team's leading rebounder with 17.2 grabs per game.

HUGH FRIDAY, a transfer student from North Dakota University, will aid the Crusaders with experience and many achieved pointers. Hugh is a former Pekin star. While performing for the Chinks he had a 15 point average and pulled down 10 rebounds a game.

BRUCE LAVIOLETTE from Galesburg, will also be an asset to the Crusaders. Bruce averaged 15 points and 10 rebounds per game. He is very versatile and can play either forward or guard.

PAT ALIG, Canton athlete who transferred to CCC from Western Illinois University at Macomb, where he played regularly on the frosh squad, is another contender for a spot on this year's Crusader team.

For the last two years good players have arrived unheralded and made excellent showings on the traveling squad, so Coach Heeren wants it known that "the door is always open" to any player who can show he has the ability to keep up with returning veterans.

With these fine freshmen and the returning sophomores from last year's surprising squad, Coaches "Slim" Jim Heeren and "Easy" Ed Georgieff should be able to sit back in comfort and watch another successful season roll by and hopefully end in Hutchinson, Kansas.

JUDO OFFERED

Canton College will resume a judo program this year under the supervision of Dan Johnson, former psychology teacher here, who has donated his time so many may learn this sport.

The classes will be held at the Canton YMCA from about 5:00 to 8:30 on Thursday nights. The cost will be $10 for a semester membership to the Y.

There are 65 enrolled in the class this year. Classes began Sept. 21. Everyone interested is invited to come and participate.

All judo students will have a chance to enter in contests at other colleges.
