LANCER

Crowded tables in CCC's library attest to the fact that mid-term exams are underway. March 29 is the official half-way mark for the semester. Will teachers make out "D" and "F" slips on April Fool's Day? (See Campus Life for other students booking for exams).

LANCER TO CONDUCT STRAW VOTE APRIL 3, 4

Who's your favorite presidential candidate? Do you tend to be "dovish" or "hawkish" in your feelings about Vietnam?

LANCER staff members would like to know the answers to these questions. They are making arrangements to conduct a straw vote April 3 and 4 in Dahm Hall lobby.

Students, faculty, clerical and maintenance workers at Canton College are invited to participate in the unofficial sampling of opinion here.

Ballots will be prepared listing announced presidential candidates (and unannounced in the case of the president as this is being written) with space provided for write-in candidates.

Because the "hawk" or "dove" label is so often arbitrarily attached to public figures these days, students arranging for the straw vote decided to provide a place on the same ballot for voters to rate themselves on a nine-point scale, indicating their feelings in regard to Vietnam.

Bradley University students and teachers were about evenly divided on this subject in a Senate-sponsored poll conducted on the campus of the Peoria school recently. On a nine-point scale, 662 students rated themselves more "hawk" than "dove" while 630 voters said they were more "dovish." Another 149 voters placed themselves right in the middle.

Voters will be asked to sign their names when they receive a ballot in Dahm Hall lobby. Providing the privacy of voting booths is not feasible.

Although planners originally planned to conduct the poll during school hours of one day only, a faculty member pointed out that many students do not have classes on Thursday (the date first set). Therefore, it was decided to set up limited voting house on Wednesday also. Plans now call for voting hours to be:

Wednesday, April 3, 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Thursday, April 4, 7:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Detailed results of the straw vote will be published in the April 11 issue of the LANCER.

Arrangements for the all-college poll will be in charge of Mike Chatwell and Gary Ortman, LANCER editors, assisted by staff members and these chairmen: Mike Myers, registration; Janette Lindecrantz, Barbara Crooks, ballots; Vicky Hammond, Jeff Jochums, Yvetta Dailey, poll workers scheduling; Terry Briggs, Joe Halford, Bernie Cowan, Lisa Beck, vote tabulation; Jim Hogan, Al Ford, publicity.

55 Pass Test On Constitution

Fifty-five of some 100 students passed the Constitution Test given March 13. The next opportunity to take the test will be April 3.

The students that passed the test are: Carolyn Aden, Jeff Anderson, Jim Appenheimer, Christine Barth, Thomas Basco, Steve G. Brown, Stephen H. Christians, Roy Clark, Faylene Conard, Keith Cowdery, Sumantha Dahlstrom, Steven Daniel, Greg DeCourcey, James A. Dennis, John Doolan, Vicki Dowell, Freddy Downey, Dennis Eads, Stephen Elsasser, Barbara Ennis, Robert J. Everett, John R. Flanagan, Alfonzo Ford, Phillip Gibboney, Gary Gill, Joe Glad, Roland Hannam, James D. Hanson, Dean Hayden, Rod Heinze, Ed Hodgkins.

Lynn Hultine, Jeffery Jochums, Pat Juraco, Tom Karrow, Keith Keller, Larry Kelley, Rick Kovacevich, Paul LaFollette, Phillip Lane, Ferdinand McCormick, Jon Mummert, James Nowak, Clarence Pollard, Robert Reeves, Richard Reils, Gary Rose, Kay Rucker, Verna Samdall, Gary Sciortino, Forrest Steele, Terry Utzinger, Jon Walden, Sherry White, Dave Willis.

293 On "Pro"

College officials list 293 students on probation this semester.

Policies of the college place students on probation who fail to maintain a "C" average for their past semester's work.

If a student on academic probation fails to achieve a C average at the close of the probationary semester, he is required to submit a petition to the Committee on Academic Standards, stating his reasons for seeking re-admission. These petitions are available from the Dean of Students in Dahm Hall.

A student enrolled in the college parallel curriculum (parallel to four-year or senior college curriculum) can be removed from academic probation when his cumulative average rises to "C" or above.

All students placed on probation or dismissed from school are notified by letter. Their parents or guardians also receive a copy of the letter.

First-semester freshmen who earn less than 0.5 or less at the end of the first semester of attendance are dismissed for poor scholarship. They may apply for re-admission after a period of one semester has elapsed.

Open 25 New Scholarships

The forming of the new F.M.K. junior college district has created 25 scholarship openings. The scholarships are being offered throughout the vicinity for students in the upper one-third of their graduating class or after they have completed seven semesters' work.

Area schools having scholarships at their disposal include: Canton Senior High, V.I.T. High School, Havana High School, Cuba High School, Astoria High School, and Valley High School, two each; Forman High School, Mason City High School, Balyki Unit 125, San Jose High School, Rushville High School, Easton High School, one each, with three scholarships at the disposal of the college itself.

The scholarships will pay for books, tuition and laboratory fees.

Application forms will be sent to the high schools for distribution to those who can qualify. School personnel will do the initial screening of candidates. The completed forms will be returned to the Director of Financial Aids Office, F.M.K. College, for final decision naming the winners.

Any school not using its quota of scholarships automatically relinquishes that number for the year and the scholarships will be distributed at the discretion of the Director of Financial Aids.

Participation in the Grant Program by F.M.K. students is expected to increase in the 1968-

INJURIES SEND FIVE TO HOSPITAL CLINIC

Five Canton College students needed medical assistance from Graham Hospital's staff within a few hours time the night of March 18.

The injuries, none of them believed to be serious, were the results of four separate mishaps.

Most discussed by students at the college the next morning was the close call of Greg Smith, 19, of Macomb. Struck by a hit-and-run driver, Smith was taken to Graham Hospital for treatment of injuries to the right leg.

According to members of Theta Kappa Epsilon who were staging a "line-up" of pledges just off the Cuba-Canton blacktop road, a 1958 model car came along the road at a high rate of speed. Several actives, standing near their cars parked on the shoulder of the road with lights on, leaped for safety, but Smith was unable to avoid being brushed by the white and red car.

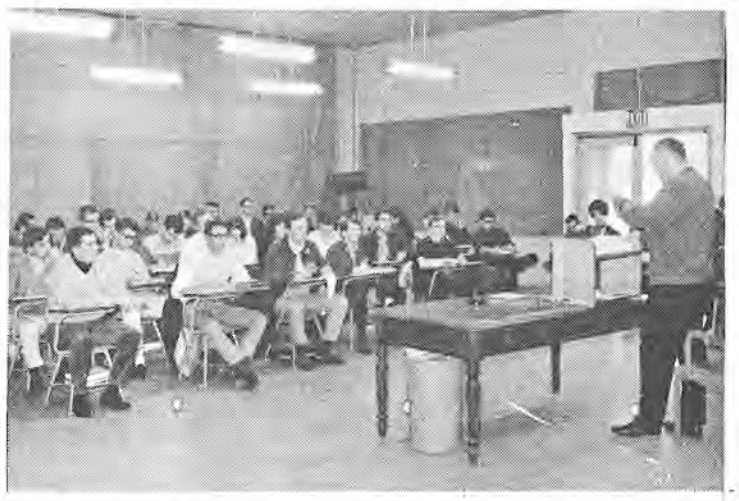

Although a number of actives and pledges tried, no one was able to get the license number of the speeding vehicle, partially because the right rear tail light was not burning.

After taking Smith to the hospital for treatment, Jeff Jochums, TKE president, filed a report of the incident with local police authorities. Fulton County Deputy Sheriff Lloyd Henderson told a LANCER reporter the following day that the search for the driver of the hit-and-run car was continuing.

Not as well publicized were the other students' accidents. William Jones of Ray, and Kent Mann of Streator, visited the outpatient clinic after suffering minor injuries while participating in a pledge line-up. Jones was treated for an eyelid laceration and Mann for a minor head injury.

Earlier the same evening, Willis Jordan, who is employed by Graham Hospital, required treatment after cleaning fluid splashed in his eye.

Close on his heels came Bill Stark who re-injured his right foot while playing intramural basketball.

Cramming for an upcoming test on the federal and state Constitutions, there was standing room only recently in S-110. YRs sponsored the session.

LINE-UP MAY BE HAZARDOUS

By Mike Chatwell

Do these pictures mean anything to you? If they do not, they are pictures of a line-up held between two sororities. The girls mixed water, flour, eggs, and anything else they could find. The sororities' pledges were taken out to the stip mines where they were involved in throwing the mess on the opposing side. This is all in the fun provided for the pledges. However, when it goes so far that fights begin between pledges, isn't it time that the Greek Council obtain some power to control the Greek organization? One of the aims of the Greek organizations is to promote brotherhood. Fighting is a far cry from brotherhood.

Another recent happening during a fraternity line-up is one which could have had much more serious consequences than a fist-fight. A pledge was hit by a car as he stood alongside a country road during the line-up. Although this was not directly the fault of his fraternity, the line-up should not have been held in a place to put any lives in danger. Also injured in the same line-up were three other boys. The cause of their injuries is not exactly known.

How long will these line-ups and rides go on before someone is more seriously injured or maybe even killed?

Rides are also a serious matter. Suppose a girl pledge was taken to the country and dropped off to find her own way home as sometimes happens. Now suppose the girl met with an accident or disappeared along the way. I'm sure this would hurt many people.

I am also sure that the sororities and fraternities want to put a stop to the fighting and other dangerous activities which occur during pledge periods. Chances are, then, if they want to, they can.

Why can't the Greek Council obtain the power to regulate the hazing and the length and severity of pledge periods? The power would have to be obtained from the administration, but if it would save further incidents, it would be worth it.

The Greek Council now has very little power to regulate pledge periods. Their only job is to keep the peace among all the sororities and fraternities. They keep the Greeks united into one body.

I don't believe any of the council members would object to having the extra duty if it would prevent more hazardous incidents.

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS

A tremendous opportunity and a challenge await freshmen students who want to have a hand in guiding student activities next year. Election of sophomore officers will be held April 24, and anyone who is presently a freshman and carries a "C" average or better is qualified to run.

The procedure is simple: Pick up a petition from the office in Dahm Hall, obtain the required number of signatures and campaign to win!

This is an excellent opportunity for you, the student who has been grumbling all year, to show that you are really interested in helping with the problems that confront the Student Senate.

A Student Senate office is not an easy position to hold. One must be prepared to attend meetings in spite of upcoming test and other engagements. One must be willing to accept disheartingly poor attendance at an event which took many hours of planning, and officers should expect to be criticized by both the administration and the student body for its efforts and its shortcomings.

Maybe you have never held an office of this nature before, but neither have some of the other students who will be campaigning. Your reason for wanting a Senate office should not be to increase dating prospects or to become BMOC. To effectively carry on its work the Senate needs people who are interested in representing and carrying out the interests of his fellow students.

If you do not personally feel you would make a good Student Senate officer then encourage someone to run whom you believe would make a good representative -- and then campaign for him!

Next year's Student Senate will have the distinction of being the first Senate of the newly formed FMK junior college. With ardent participation from the student body it could also have the distinction of setting an outstanding example for succeeding Senates to follow. --- G.O.

Are You Doing Your Fair Share?

Are you doing your fair share to support your local city treasury? Are you one of those who has to run between classes to avoid tickets for violation of time?

Something has to be done about the parking situation. If you're not running to the meter you're paying for your negligence. If you arrive too late you're out of luck.

If the college was located in a suburban area could possibly have our problem solved. Also if the college buildings were all together, instead of scattered from one corner to the next, it would help immensely. But we can't be disillusioned; the college is poorly located. On one side we have our business district and on the other we have Canton's backbone, International Harvester. Let's hope that with the yes received on the new Jr. College referendum, some of these problems will be eliminated. It won't do our classes much good at this time, but at least there is hope for the classes of future years. ---------- V.H.

SOME CAN, SOME CAN'T

In today's educational systems there are basically two classifications of instructors: concerned and non-concerned.

Unfortunately there are increasing numbers of persons involved in the teaching profession who really don't belong there; and, in fact are so miserable in the classroom that they make learning conditions duly impossible for the students. Such instructors, though they may be gifted orators and well versed in their respective fields, give the student a feeling that he is imposing on the educator if he asks extra help; or if the student ventures to, and is successful in making an appointment with the instructor, he is often made witness to scenes where the teacher sits and eats or does other work while the student tries in vain to discuss his problem. An old trick of the non-concerned teacher is to make a second appointment at the same time, thus having another student in the office when a second arrives, which enables the teacher to dismiss the later coming student with a light wave, or to not come to the appointment at all.

Of course these students treated this manner know the teacher for what he is, and as a result he turns to the concerned teacher for help with his problems. With the concerned teacher there is always time to help the student and he also tries to instill an interest in the course. Needless to say this teacher is the one to which the students will turn for advice and will, by the same token, feel that this instructor is one of the highest caliber.

Junior colleges were supposedly created with the idea in mind to help to educate the student who is unable for one reason or another to attend a larger four year institution. However, when the student encounters one unconcerned teacher after another, the emotional student may be soured on college life and especially college instructors. Because the first two years of college are supposed to be the most formative, they must also be the ones in which the student receives the most guidance and advice from competent educators who do care.

TAKE YEARBOOK PICS

The CCC yearbook staff had all school organization pictures taken March 7 at 2:00 p.m. in Swartzbaugh Hall.

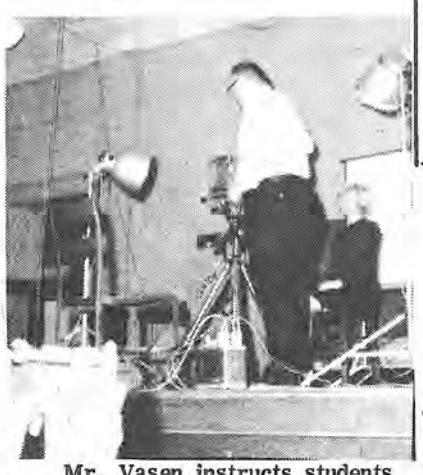

Sixteen group pictures were taken. They included the three fraternities, two sororities, basketball team, cheerleaders, nurses, Young Republicans, Young Democrats, Greek Council, Student Senate, Lancer Staff, Shield Staff, the farm tech fraternity, and the honorary society.

The picture taking process had been expected to take three hours but it only took a little over two. Few members were absent from each organization. This year the Shield Staff had the students in the rows sign their own name and position they held.

Canton College has a new night course. It is a basic course in photography to provide the necessary information and developing skills in the use of cameras. Mr. William Vasen instructs the class that meets on Wednesday evenings from 7-10 p.m. in Canton Junior High School.

Also included in the course are studies on processing films, making final prints, analysis of photographic errors, and the basic principles of color photography. A study of motion picture photography is also included. The course will consist of a one-hour lecture period and a two-hour laboratory and demonstration session. There are about 10 students enrolled in the class.

Mr. Vasen instructs students in camera techniques in CCC's new photography class.

'EVERYBODY BUT ME'

A new folk group, called EVERYBODY BUT ME, has been formed with one of the members being a freshman at Canton College.

Mike Baker started auditions for the group about a month ago. The result was that three students at Canton High School were found and rounded out the group.

Besides Baker on guitar, the other members of the group are Gary Ohlemiller, guitar; Debbie Travis and Evan Baker on vocals.

The group does primarily traditional folk, but does get into modern folk-rock with such songs as "Norweigen Wood" and "Society's Child."

The group hopes to work out a number of original compositions. Engagements have been at Webster's in Pekin, and Canton Coffee House. Future engagements are planned for coffee houses in Peoria, Normal, and Macomb.

Canton College faculty members and the student body wish to extend their deepest sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. George Starasta, faculty members. His father, Mr. Michael Starasta, of Christopher, Ill., died unexpectedly March 9 at his home.

Forsaking school garb for jackets and ties, the men were waiting for the SHIELD photographer to "shoot" them.

Teen Center Hosts Folk Coffee House

A group of Canton College students presented a coffee-house-folk theatre at the Canton Teen Center on March 19.

Their performance was the second "experimental" coffee house; the earlier event was held March 13. The first one was marked by low attendance and a shortage of entertainment.

More publicity helped attendance at the second coffee house. It was termed a "succes" by Dan Crafton of the "Partial Folk" who performed along with another group, "Everybody But Me."

According to "Buck" Clore, owner of the Teen Center, the reaction to the coffee house was "extremely favorable." He added that future coffee houses would be planned. The next one is scheduled for April 2 from 9-11 p.m., at the Teen Center, on East Elm Street, one-half block off the Square.

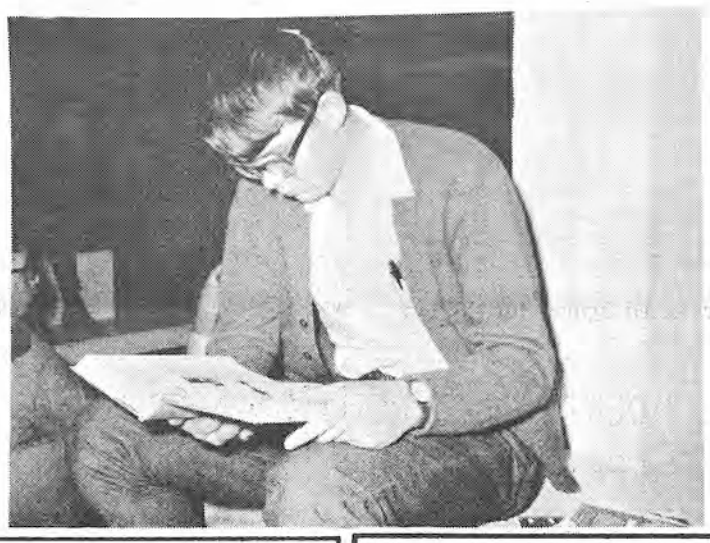

Phi Theta Kappa Banquet Tonight

Canton College chapter of Phi Theta Kappa, national junior college honorary fraternity, will hold its spring initiation banquet tonight at Westbrook's in Pekin.

Harold Huber will be the principal speaker at the banquet meeting following initiation ceremonies for new members.

Mrs. Betty Starasta is adviser of Canton's chapter, one of 35 chapters in the United States. The organization is comparable to Phi Betta Kappa for juniors and seniors in universities.

Membership is by invitation. Students must earn an A-minus average for one semester and a cumulative average of B to be eligible.

APRIL 6 ART TRIP

Art students here and their friends will take a trip April 6 to the Art Institute at Chicago.

A chartered bus will leave Swartzbaugh Hall at 7 a.m., and is expected to arrive in Chicago about noon. Once there students will eat lunch and be free to browse through the art museum at their leisure.

The busload of students is scheduled to leave the Art Institute at 5 p.m., arriving in Canton about 9 p.m.

Mrs. Beverly Tepper, art instructor, will accompany the group.

A "semi - musical" play with singers, dancers, and character parts will be presented by college students, according to a March 19 announcement.

The announcement of the event, read to college classes on that date, asked them to notify Miss Daisy Coty, speech instructor, within three days if they were interested in participating or helping with the production.

Fourteen new potential letter winners remain. "By the time you find out what makes the world go 'round, you're too dizzy to care."

This is the day which the Lord has made.
—(Psalms 118:24).

There is time enough! The need is not for more time, but more wisdom in planning and using it. Our need is to show good judgment in the way we handle the things that we have to do. We not only have the time but the strength to follow through and to accomplish successfully and well whatever is before us. Let this be our living realization this day and let God work through us in all that we do.

UPSETS CAUSES PLAY-OFF

Monday night's play-off for the intramural basketball championship was the result of an unexpected photo finish March 18.

On that night Team No. 2 was the only undefeated team. A win on that night would give them the undisputed championship. But it didn't work out that way.

Team No. 4 whipped the first place team (No. 2) resulting in the scheduling of a play-off. The championship had not been decided when the LANCER went to press.

With Team No. 4 drawing a bye, teams No. 2 and No. 3 were scheduled to play with the winner gaining the right to meet No. 4 for the title.

On March 18, the standings were: Team No. 5, 2-3; Team No. 2, 4-1; Team No. 1, 0-5; Team No. 3, 4-1; Team No. 4, 4-1; Team No. 6, 1-4.

Journ class members find themselves almost equally divided between Galesburg and Peoria Central as potential state high school champions. This photo was taken the day the tourney opened at Champaign.

ON OTHER CAMPUSES

Washington University basketball is in jeopardy of being cancelled. A student group called Students for Varsity Athletics are gathering support for their last home game against Culver Stockton College in a last ditch effort to keep basketball from being dropped.

Western Illinois University has just finished voting for new representatives for their student government. The largest turnout ever was recorded at the WIU polls. The number of student voters was 42.5% of the total students enrolled. This was an increase of 25.5% over the previous year.

Bradley University just finished hosting the Four Seasons on Feb. 10. The group performed to an almost packed house of enthusiastic college students. The group's performance was in line with the high quality the Four Seasons are noted for. Each performer in the group could be a night full of entertainment but the group headed by Frankie Valli made for a great night of entertainment.

Golf Team Slats 10 Meets

The Crusaders golf team expects to participate in 10 matches this year.

Coach Jim Heeren has these veterans back this year: Jack Bishop, Larry West, Brad Belshaw, James Mosher and Tom Durst.

Last year, these men competed in a tournament in Chicago where they placed eighth out of 25 teams entered. This was the first year Canton College had fielded a golf squad.

"All boys are welcome to come out for the college golf team," according to Coach Heeren. He suggested that going out for the college team should improve every player's game.

Most of this year's matches will be played against other junior college teams, but a few matches will be against four-year schools.

SIGS SCORE 65-61 WIN

In one of the more interesting "social" events of the Sigma Iota Nu Fraternity held off a late fourth quarter "surge" to defeat the Theta Kappa Epsilon Fraternity, 65-61, in a well-played basketball game.

After falling to a 14 point deficit at the end of the first half, the "Theta Kaps" took charge and tied the score 59-59.

Gary McCray scored two points with a "drive-in" layup. Lanny Burgard dribbled the ball up court and hit a 5-foot jump shot to tie the score 61-61.

Lanny Burgard once again brought the ball up court and he was fouled. He made the two free throws putting the "Sigs" in front 63-61.

The "Theta Kaps" missed their attempt at the basket with the "Sigs" rebounding. Lanny Burgard "iced" the "Sig's" victory with two final free throws in the last three seconds of the game.

Although the awesome surprise of defeat was inevitable by Head Coach Bernie Cowan and the "Theta Kaps", he is hoping that a return game will be played with the "Sigs."

HORSESHOER ATTENDS CCC

"Everybody's gotta have shoes -- including horses," says Don Vanderveen, CCC sophomore from Havana.

Don, who has served with the Army in Vietnam, is a graduate of the Midwest Horseshoeing School in Macomb, Ill., and is a qualified horse shoer.

Don's interest in shoeing began when he decided to shoe his own horse to avoid the cost of hiring a professional shoer. "It wasn't the best job in the world," he said, "but the shoes didn't come off when I rode him." He then tested his new talent further by shoeing a horse for a neighbor.

At this point Don decided that he had better go to school and learn the proper techniques if he were to continue shoeing. He enrolled in the Macomb school in March of 1967 for their three month course which can accomodate only 12 students. The curriculum included anatomy of the horse leg which was taught by a local veterinarian, general horseshoeing, and practical forge work which was highly emphasized.

To receive a diploma Don had to pass a practical test on trimming, fitting, shoeing as well as a 50-question essay exam on anatomy.

Because the students at the school are novices, horse owners may bring horses in to be shod free of charge.

Don plans to take the test for an Illinois Horseshoer's license in late April. The test, which is similar to his finals at horseshoeing school, includes trimming the hoof, making a horseshoe, forge welding, and orals on anatomy. Successful completion of the license test will allow Don to charge for any work that he does for horse owners.

Of course there are occupational hazards in the horseshoeing business. Don has been kicked several times, and one mischevious colt knocked him down and then stepped on him. "That doesn't discourage me though", states Don enthusiastically, "it just makes me more determined."

When a horse won't peacefully submit to receiving a new set of shoes it has to be thrown. A volunteer then incapacitates the horse by sitting on his neck while the shoer does the job.

Don owns his own forge, vice, hand tools, and anvil which he carries in the back of his pickup truck. He ordered his anvil from Sweden because of its superior quality. He also carries a supply of special coal needed to heat the metal bars to a workable temperature when making shoes.

When you come right down to it, horses don't have it so bad. As Don pointed out, "Horses get four shoes for less than what a man pays for two. The horse's shoes last longer -- and he doesn't have to worry about dirty sox."

Folk Group Plays Fashion Show

"The Partial Folk", a Canton College group, were termed a success by a cirector of the Canton YMCA fashion show, which was conducted Thursday, March 14, at the Canton Senior High School.

The "Partial Folk" entertained at the show during an intermission.

The show featured rainwear, sportswear, and Easter wear, with hats, for Spring, 1968. Nine Canton stores supplied fashions to be modeled in the show. About 30 models were on hand to display the new fashions.

Trish Phillips, of Scripp's, one of the stores involved in the fashion show, said, "Stores in Canton are becoming fashion minded for a college town. We can provide all the needs of the college students."

NAME CRANWILL TO SENATE

Patti Cranwill of Pekin, has been appointed to the Student Senate.

Approval of President Dan Kelly's appointment was unanimous at a regular meeting of the Senate March 18.

Members of the student government organization are continuing their work on revision of the Constitution.

Larry Berry, an officer of the group reported that he has been reading through all the past minutes of the organization and has failed to find one instance where the Senate passed any amendment to the Constitution. No by-laws apparently were written either, he reported.
